Creates Big Excitement When Police Raid the House.

CROWDSBLOCK STREET

Big O. M. B. Saloon Pulled-Had 400 Members.

Hundreds of Dollars Worth of Liquor and Beer Captured.

Lawrence, July 16.-A sensation was created here yesterday by the raiding of the O. M. B. lodge room, the arrest of the proprietor and bartender and the seizure of the liquor.

The raid was attended by a great deal of excitement and much secrecy. It was made by the sheriff with the aid of the city police force. There was no trouble in making the arrests, and the only difficulty in getting the liquor away from the place was in getting wagons enough to haul it.

When the deputy sheriff entered the front door there was a rush of occupants to escape at the rear, only to find the city marshal and policemen guarding it.

After the officers had entered they waited for some time, and the crowd outside that had gathered on the news of the raid, almost blocked the street.

George M. Crowder was given time to collect the lodge books and paraphernalia, and was taken together with his barkeeper to the district clerk's office.

The lodge room was equal to any in Kansas City. There was a handsome polished oak bar, a huge plate glass mirror and all the other enticing appurtenances of a modern saloon. A great ice chest had seven kegs of beer in it, and there was one keg on tap. There were any number of cases about

There were any number of cases about the room and all the incidentals necessary for the operation of a successful drinking place were at hand.

When the officers had gotten everything to the fall they found the following lot of stuff:

Nine two gallon jugs, some full and others partly full of wine.
One-half barrel partly full of wine.
One harrel partly full of whisky.
One 10 gailon keg of whisky.
Eleven kegs of beer.
Four full cases of bottled beer.
Two half cases of bottled beer.
One hundred and fifty bottles, some quart, some pint, and some decanters filled with all kinds of liquors.
The fixtures and mirrors in the place were recently imported from Kansas City, and were very fine. The refrigerator was big enough to hold 30 kegs of beer.

Crowder and Humphrey were placed under bonds for $500 each to appear for trial at the November term of the disunder bonds for $500 each to appear for trial at the November term of the district court.

There are eight charges for selling liquor against each one of the three men, and one count against each for maintaining a nuisance.

The Q.M. B. has been running in Lawrence for over a year. The lodge is said to have over 400 members in Lawrence and in the country surrounding the town, and on the information filed by the county attorney appears the names of over 150 members as witnesses. On the lodge blackboard were several names that had been proposed for membership, and not yet voted in. Among these as well as in the list filed by the county attorney are many names that would greatly surprise the people of the town, and there is hardly a business house along the street that had not representatives in the list. This will no doubt cause a great scattering of the men of the town until the case is tried.

Lower filed a poverty affidavit when the suit was brought, but at the hearing the judge gave him until July 24 to file a bond for costs. A quit claim deed has just been placed on record here giv-ing Julian a clear title to his lot and the amount the amount of compromise was named as $150. Mr. Julian says he knew nothing about the deed until if was filed and did not and will not pay one cent, and it is thought here that attorneys for the savings bank, of which Julian bought the property, secured the deed for nothing.

Recently a compromise was made in Recently a compromise was made in a case brought in the district court here to quiet title on two lots and it is the general opinion that the owner paid a very small sum if anything for the deeds. There are other suits of like nature pending. Mr. Heitman recently spent a week here trying to sell quit claim deeds, and the opinion is growing avery day that Lower's attorneys are trying to keep a test case out of court in order to keep a cloud over the property and bleed the people. Lower's attorneys recently sent letters to a number of property owners here trying to scare them by telling them that unless they effected a compromise a suit would be brought, but it did not work.

A dispatch from Kansas City says Lower admits that he made the com-premise above, and said he was willing. and had always been willing to compromise any case he might have against individual property holders. He even offered at one time to settle with a man who holds a $10,000 farm and a house and lots in town for $125, but the man refused, and now Lower has raised the price of the compromise in his case, he says, to $500.

Lower still insists that his father was insane when he deeded away the prop-erty; that the titles to the lands are worthless in that fact, and that he has a clear case. The property is now worth he says—at least $50,000, and he has no intention of letting go his claim, and he insists, too, that he is not "bluffing."

Think of it:

Laws to Include in the Revised Statute.

Judge W. C. Webb of this city, who is engaged in the work of revising the state statutes, means to ignore the recent decision of the supreme court in reference to the unconstitutionality of the repeal law passed last winter, and will leave out of the statutes of 1897 the laws he personally holds to be re-dundant and unnecessary.

This number will include practically all of the laws included in the repeal bill with the exception of the laws es-tablishing courts, about 12 or 15 in all. Judge Webb states that to place these laws in the statute books would in-laws in the statute books would increase each copy by 40 pages, and that he does not intend to include them in the revision as he holds them to be wholly redundant and unnecessary.

Among the laws which Judge Webb proposes to exclude from the statutes are the two enabling acts consolidating Kansas City, Kan., and north and south Lawrence. Also the acts giving townships authority to issue bonds for the relief of the farmers suffering from the relief of the farmers suffering from the grasshopper pest, authorizing the payment of Quantrell and Price raid claims and claims for Indian depredalons, and authorizing the incorporation of counties.

Judge Webb holds that all of these laws are now dead, and therefore have no place in the revised statutes. A firesome legal fight will probably result.

tival-There's an Open Day. The A. O. U. W. lodges of the city want to take part in the Fall Festival, and they want to be given a place on the programme. This request is made by a committee representing 2,-500 Workmen in Topeka alone, Besides this, there are 30,000 Workmen in the state, many of whom would attend the Fall Festival if a special celebration is Mr. L. M. Penwell is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the A. O. U. W. celebration during Festival week. Today he said: "The A. O. U. W. is anxious to take a prominent part in the Fall Festival if the committee will into the committee of the committee will just give us a chance. There are laree contractors now figuring on an arch for us which will span Kansas avenue. If we are not given a whole day we will be satisfied with one afterday we will be satisfied with one afternoon. And I can say that if a place is given us we will entertain the people royally. We have 30,000 members in the state and 2,500 in Topeka. We don't ask the Committee of Fifteen for anything except a place on the programme. We want a place in the parades and at least an afternoon of the week. There will be at least 1,000 week. There will be at least 1,000 Workmen here from over the state to see the Festival. If we can have a special date given us that number will be doubled and it may be trebled."

There have been so many demands on the Committee of Fifteen for dates and places in parades, etc., that the request of the A. O. U. W. seems to have been overlooked. Since the withdrawal of the Trades Assembly, the first of day of the Festival is thus left blank.

Monday could be siven the A. O. U. the Festival is thus left blank.

Monday could be given the A. O. U.

W for its celebration with the privilege of using all of it or simply the afternoon. If this date could not be arranged it is probable that they could be placed at another time. The order is ready and willing to do its part in the celebration and they should be given the opportunity. They made a creditable showing in the parades last year, and their plans for this year are for ever so much larger celebration.

The A. O. U. W. committee meets again next Tuesday evening. If Monday is to be given the order for its own the Committee should be notified so that proper arrangements can be made. Mr. Penwell is favorable to Monday,but would rather have a date a little later in the week. Monday, however, is going to be a good day. It was a big day last year. All the troops, the firemen, militia and bands will arrive in Topeka the Sunday bands will arrive in Topeka the Sunday before the Fall Festival begins. There will be at least 25,000 strangers in the city by Monday, and if the A. O. U. W. of Kansas are summoned to be here, the crowd will be 35,000. The people are coming early this time.
